We continue to improve the outlook on breast cancer and are proud to have funded so many impactful grants and ground-breaking research despite the pandemic. With the uncertainty of federal funding, the need for private philanthropy for the advancement of cures continues to grow.

WE HAVE FUNDED 463 GRANTS TO DATE:

We focus on crucial early-stage research. Breast Cancer Alliance is a premiere private foundation committed to funding early-stage, innovative and impactful research not yet eligible for federal grants. BCA uniquely bridges that gap by providing exceptional researchers with scientific venture capital, propelling life-changing scientific hypotheses from the conceptual stage to reality.

We support brilliant talent in the field. Breast Cancer Alliance understands that survival rates and quality of life are dramatically improved when patients are in the care of specially trained breast surgeons. As a result, BCA uniquely funds breast surgery fellowships at Society of Surgical Oncology-accredited institutions. These highly skilled surgeons go on to work at institutions across the United States. Through its Young Investigator Grants, BCA helps launch the careers of promising new scientists as well.

We eliminate barriers of access to essential breast care. Breast cancer survival rates are near 90% due to advances in early detection and improved education. BCA funds breast health education programs and covers costs associated with mammograms, biopsies and other breast cancer-related services, lessening the burden for underserved women.

We continue to improve the outlook on breast cancer and are proud to have awarded $30 million in critical grants since 1996. With federal funds for research and healthcare for the underserved at uncertain junctures, private philanthropy is more important now than ever. It is private philanthropy that will fund the path to cures for breast cancer.

Learn how you can be involved with BCA. BCA’s success is a result of partnerships with leaders across the U.S. including those on our prestigious Medical Advisory Board, our Board of Directors, our Advisory Council and our External Scientific Review Committee. Together with legions of energetic volunteers and our generous supporters, Breast Cancer Alliance is making a difference for women and men affected by breast cancer.
